DISCUSSION

Health is a necessity thing for everyone. If one has to express in English for communication, it can be a difficult things for those without English as a native language. However, it is required that one should know specific English medical term that can be useful in assessing health product and service [1]. Effective usage of English can be a good determinant in success of communication in health care seeking [2]. As a graduate student from any university, the student should have good knowledge in basic English used in health communication.
